Is it Leather ???

Turnstyle Designs is renowned for its extensive range of beautiful hand stitched door, cabinet and bathroom hardware. Turnstyle has a reputation for its innovative use of materials including, pewter, timber, and its own unique composites. It seemed only a matter of time therefore that it blended two of its best selling lines, the Leather Range and the Composite range to create a new line “The Leather Composite.”

For some people, they will always want the genuine article, with all the character that real leather brings. However, some people and applications prefer the composite leather, that does not age or change in the way that real leather does.

The Leather Composite range is a stand-alone range and many of the ten new hand-stitched masters, would not be practical to make in leather on a production level, casting them is the only way they can be offered.

The level of detail from the silicone mould is incredible, every crease in the leather and detail of the stitch is crystal clear to a point where one cannot tell if it is real leather or not ...The brain is even tricked into believing the product is soft like leather.

Available in two new finishes Mocha and Espresso, the handles are in stock and are hot to go.
